

Earth Art Lives. Around the country Earth and Land artists continue to make creations out of the living world. Simon English's Camomile Swan was seen winging East for the 1989 midsummer rising sun. Unveiled by a labour of love, using only a hand mower, from a white camomile meadow, the Earth is temporarily adorned with this beautiful elaboration upon nature: an example of how solstice celebrations could go and grow.

WORD WORKS

Those books which the mainstream media pass by get the window of opportunity here. This time round Paul Ryan's Video Mind and Michael Tucker's exploration of the intertwinings of the shamanic and modernism.